

Dalmatian pyrethrum

The plant called Dalmatian pyrethrum is economically important as a natural source of insecticide.

It grows in the south of Croatia which is why it was named Dalmatian pyrethrum. The Dalmatian pyrethrum looks reminiscent of a plant Ivančica, but its flower is slightly larger.

It has bluish green leaves. Animals are very fond of this plant for feeding.

We can be really proud to have such beautiful nature and plants as this one and many others growing in fields, hills, mountains...

By Antonio Kovač 7.b

